

Economy

Economy is the backbone of every country in this world; if a state is self-sufficient in all its economic resources then it will be easy for her to make progress. In context of Pakistan, which is rich in natural resources and minerals as well the thing is the extraction of those resources by technological advancement? It is only possible via strong economy and planning the both things we are lagged behind. Due to this problem we are compelled to give contract to the transnational corporations which first fulfill their own interest, later they think about Pakistan. For the betterment of economy Pakistan House is also conducting the different conferences which will provide some guidance to the government to draw such policies which later on help us the make economy strong.
